

World Aids Day 1st December 2021

World AIDS Day is held on 1 December each year and is an opportunity for people worldwide to celebrate and show support for people living with and affected by HIV, a commemoration to everyone who has died and an opportunity to come together and unite in the fight against HIV

The very first World AIDS Day was held in 1988

The Red Ribbon is an internationally recognised symbol worn to signify HIV awareness and support for people living with and affected by HIV.

It is a symbol of hope that the continued search for a vaccine and cure is successful and that all the associated stigma and discrimination ends. This year's theme is

End inequalities. End AIDS
